DIGNITY OF THE OFFICE OF CHIEF MAGISTRATE, AND

At the centennial banquet at Clinton, N. Y., he people in their choice and its too frequent influence on their suffrage may surprise us, these things should never lead us astray in our estimate of this exalted position and its value and dignity. And though your fellow citizen who may be chosen to perform for a time the duties of this ighest place should be badly selected, and though the best attainable results may not be reached by his administration, yet the exciting watchfulness of the people, freed from the disturbing turnoil of political excitement ought to prevent mischance to the office which represents their vereignty and should reduce to the minimum

he danger of harm to the state. I by no means underestimate the importance of the utmost care and circumspection in the selection of the incumbent. On the contrary, I believe there is no obligation of citizenship that demands more thought and conscientious deliberation than this. But I am speaking of the citizens' duty to the office and its selected incumbent. This duty is only performed when in the interest of the entire people the full exercise of the powers of the Chief Magistrate is insisted on, and when, for the people's safety, a due regard for the limitations placed upon the office is exacted. These things should be enforced by the manifestation of a calm and enlightened public opinion. That this should not be simulated by the mad clamor of disappointed interest, which without regard for the general

comings. Watch well, then, this high office, the most precious possession of American citizenship, demand for it the most complete devotion on the part of him to whose custody it may be entrusted, and protect it not less violently from unworthy assaults from without. Thus will you perform a sacred duty to yourselves and to those who may follow you in the enjoyment of the freest institutions which heaven has ever vouchsafed to man. ASSASSINATED IN THE STREET. Mr. Joseph C. G. Kennedy Dogged by a Murderer and Stabbed to Death.

STARTLING TRAGEDY IN A CROWDED THOROUGH-FARE-PARTICULARS OF THE CRIME-THE ASSAIL-ANT'S ALLEGED GRIEVANCE-THE TESTIMONY AT THE CORONER'S INQUEST TO-DAY-THE RELATIONS BETWEEN MR. KENNEDY AND HIS MURDERER.

A tragedy of a most startling character occurred about five o'clock yesterday afternoon at the corner of 15th street and New York avenue, while the street was filled with people. The victim was Mr. Joseph C. G. Kennedy, a venerable He used to come to his father's and stay until and much respected citizen. The murderer was driven away by his stepmother, sometimes a month at a time. The father, McKeon said, did John Daily, a trampish looking fellow, who appears to have hung about the corner for several hours with a murderous knife concealed in his booket waiting for opportunity to assassinate the pocket waiting for opportunity to assassinate the white haired old man as he left his office. Mr. Kennedy, who has for years, been engaged in business as a real estate agent and bank attorney, occupied an antiquated little one-story office on 15th street, just north of Riggs & Co's. banking house. Yesterday afternoon at 5, the business for the day being are the day being over, Mr. Kennedy closed his office, strolled across the street to the northeast corner of 15th street and New York avenue, with a package of papers in his hands, which he deposited in the letter-box at the corner.

THE MURDEROUS ASSAULT. Then, it appears, he started from the letter-box toward a 14th street car that was standing at the junction, and had taken only a step or two when he was overtaken by a thick-set, ill-favored man. some accounts of those who witnessed the startling scene that was quickly over say that Daily, the ill-favored man, struck Mr. Kennedy in the back with his fist, and as Mr. Kennedy turned and Sergeant-at-Arms Canada, were registered in New York last evening.—Archibald Cooper of San Francisco, B. Schwab of New York, F. F. Campbell of Newark, N. J., are at Willard's.—

Odek with his list, and as Mr. Kennedy turned about he plunged a knife into his abdomen. At any rate, Dally stabbed Mr. Kennedy in the right side of the abdomen. Mr. Kennedy grappled with his burly assailant and they both sank to the ground, Mr. Kennedy crying out as he fell, "Oh, my God! He has killed me." Daily broke from the grasp of the old man and rose to his feet. Mr. Kennedy called "police," and resting upon one elbow kept his eyes fixed and his band pointed at his assassin until he became exhausted and sank down upon the asphalt pavement. All this happened so quickly that the few people who wit essed the assault had hardly time to realize what had occurred. There were many people about the railroad junction and soon the utmost excitement and Henry Mason, a colored special officer on duty in the Safe Deposit Company's office. Dr. Ruth, of the Navy, who was passing by, came to the assistance of the dying man, and, with others, supported him during the few minutes that he breathed. The gathering crowds showed some disposition to execute summary vengeance upon the assassing and the police to whom he was turned over, as a easure of safety, handcuffed him and took him to THE LIMITED PARTNERSHIP HEREtofore existing between F. The republicans hold their convention at morgue, and an hour or so later taken to his house, attend both conventions, expressed the opinion to bers of his family, who had already been informed in the police wagon, to the third precinct station. of the deplorable occurrence, were prostrated by shock and grief.

WHAT THE PRISONER SAID.

After the murder Daily seemed to be stolidly cool, and much less excited than the crowd that gathered about the spot. When slezed by Mr. Cobb he said: "Yes, I done it," and when asked why he had done it replied, in a surly tone. "Well. robbed me, and now I have got even with him. He claimed that Mr. Kennedy had cheated his father and himself in a real estate transaction, and that he had waited for a long time to get even he had murdered an inoffensive old man, he said "It will come out; I mistook him for another man." At the police station when searched a razor was found in his right shoe. He said he was fifty years old, and was born in Tipperary, Ireland. The weapon with which he committed the crime yesterday afternoon is a large case-knife, the blade having been ground down until it was pointed like a dagger. Daily is of medium height, quite bald and has a short gray beard covering his face. He wore a well-worn suit of clothes and a coarse cotton shirt. When a STAR reporter saw him in his cell last night he was disinclined to talk. "I know what I have done," he said, "and I know what the penalty is." He said he had not been drinking yesterday further than to take three or four glasses of beer. When plied with questions, he said: "It's nothing but talk, talk. My head aches, and I don't want to talk." He said to ten years, as he was not strong enough; and that he had no family. He had no regular home, he said, but "lived around."

WHAT THE POLICE KNOW OF DAILY. But very little is known by the police about the prisoner's movements in this city. He first made himself known to them, so far as can be ascertained, on the 10th day of December, 1885, when At the centennial banquet at Clinton, N. Y., yesterday afternoon, President Cleveland responded to the toast, "The President of the United States." He said:

"I am inclined to content myself on this core." "I am inclined to content myself on this occasion with an acknowledgment on behalf of the people of the United States of the compliment which you have paid to the office which represents their sovereignty. But such an acknowledgment the 22d of the same month by officer Fisher for assured to the 22d of the same month by officer suggests an idea which I cannot refrain from dwelling upon for a moment. That the office of President of the United States does represent the sovereignty of 60,000,000 of people is to my mind a statement full of solemnity. Sovereignty I conceive to be the working act or enforcement of the divine gift to man to govern himself and a manifestation of God's plans concerning the human festation of God's plans concerning the human priest. Mr. Kennedy was born in Meadville, Pa., April 812, and was a descendant of the well-known El cott family, which founded Ellicost City. Md. b ng a grandson of that Ellicott who, at the request of President Washington, conveyed through Thomas Jefferson, surveyed the ten miles square columbia. He was prominent in politics in early times, and was an ardent whig, which party he supported in the columns of the Franklin (Pa.) Intelligencer, of which he was editor and proprietor about forty years ago. He came here in December, 1849, and took charge of the census of 1850, and also laid out the rules and plan for the conduct of the census of 1860. He then became an attorney and real estate agent, to which busi ness he has devoted himself ever since, acting for national banks and many prominent and wealthy persons. He was quite a scholar and had a choice library. He had a wide acquaintance among the prominent men at the capital, and he was generally well known and respected. On the 1st of April, 1886, Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy celebrated their fittleth annual and mrs. Wennedy celebrated their fittleth annual was a wife and many arranged to their weadding. ABRIVAL IN UTICA.

The President and Mrs. Cleveland arrived in Utica from Clinton at 6 p. m., and were met at the depot by ex-Senater Kernan's carriage. They were escorted by the Utica Jacksonians. They dined at Mr. Kernan's, and at 9:45 held a reception.

FUTURE MOVEMENTS.

This morning they were to go to Forestport, where they will be guests of Rev. W. N. Cleveland and family till Saturday, when, with Secremoved from the wound, dut saw it ifing on the same and the other half to windred, his wife. Windred was for many years a servant in the family of Mr. Kennedy, and married Michael Daily, John's mother having been dead for a long time. There stood upon the permises a small frame house of two rooms, and in this they lived, hardy existing upon the proceeds of the sale of the milk of two cows, which they kept upon the opton the commons. They were, as I understand, miserably poor, and the son, John, rendered them assistance whatever. Windred ded July in a satisfance whatever, windred ded July in the price. Michael died, My understanding of the matter is the price. Michael died, My understanding of the matter is that John Daily, at the time of his father's death, was not aware that the lot had passed out of the old man's possession. When the fact was made known, his disappointment was great, and he was terribly incensed against Mr. Kennedy and I believe connemplated a suit to recover, but investigation only revealed the legality of the transaction, and proceedings were never instituted. From that time on John, who was an ide, dissolute man, spending his time as an inmate of the poor-house brooded continually over his fanced wrong, and I suppose that when he saw that the saw that the property which his father had parted with tor a small sum had been sold to me for an against with the saw that the property which his father had parted with tor a small sum had been sold to me for an again that the property which his father had parted with tor a small sum had been sold to me for an again the word had been sold to me for an again that the property which his father had parted with tor a small sum had been sold to me for an again that the property which his father had parted with tor a small sum had been sold to me for an again that the property which his father had parted with tor a small sum had been sold to me for an again that the property which his father had parted with tor a small sum had been sold to me for an again t land and family till Saturday, when, with Secretary and Mrs. Fairchild, Miss Rose Cleveland, Miss Mary Hastings, and some Oswego friends of Mrs. Cleveland, they will enjoy an excursion to the Thousand Islands. Thence they go to Cazenovia as the guest of Secretary Fairchild. While in that vicinity the President will visit his old home in Fayetteville. Jas. Reed and W. H. Pryor, two well-known young gentlemen of Norfolk, Va., were arrested yesterday on bench warrants issued by Judge Tucker Brooks, of the Corporation Court, upon application of Chief of Police Roland that they were about to fight a duel near the water works. It was evident the professional regatta at Lake Quinsigamond yesterday was taken up with a double skull race between Hamm and Teemer, Hosmer and McKay, and Ross and Lee. The race was won by Hosmer and McKay in 18:20. The course was three miles abled him to live comfortably the remainder of his life, he made up his mind to have revenge, and that that resolve culminated in the atrocious murder which so shocked the entire community last night. John Daily had no right, title or interest in the property when his father sold it, nor, so far as I know, was there any obligation on the part of Mr. Kennedy to pay John one cent." SOMETHING ABOUT DAILY'S LIFE.

John T. McKeon, a messenger in the War Department, told a STAR reporter to-day that he had lived next door to murderer Daily's father, on M street, between 14th and 15th streets. He did not not have the sense of a five-year-old child, not think, to be over forty-five years of age. He said that Dally is paralyzed on one side, and has been since a boy, so his father said. He learned the carriage building trade at Andrew Joyce's, but could not continue at work on account of his infirmity. When salved about the real extent reliables infirmity. When asked about the real estate relations between Mr. Kennedy and the Daily's he said that Mr. Kennedy sold the lot on M street to Daily, and the murderer loaned the money to his father to make the purchase. After Mrs. Daily's death Mr. Kennedy got the land back again, but the younger Daily never got a cent of his money

Mrs. Daily, he continued, was perfectly well to do, but after her death the old man could only find $33, although she had a handsome gold watch and other valuables besides money. He would not express an opinion as to what became of the money and personal effects, but said that the younger Daily got none that he knew of. The elder Daily died a few years ago. He had less sense than his son, indeed, McKeon said "he did not have sense enough to know that his wife was Mrs. Brannon, in whose house, corner of 14th and N streets, Daily lived for about a year, until 1885, says that Daily continually complained of 1885, says that Daily continually continua his back and pains in his head.

The Inquest To-day. When a STAR reporter arrived at the residence of the murdered man, 1207 N street northwest, this morning, Coroner Patterson was there making reparations for the inquest. He had decided to simply swear the jury and have them view the remains at the residence, and to take the testimony at the third precinct station house. The body of the murdered man was extended upon a stretcher in the back parior, while on the floor in the front parlor was the casket in which the body was to be placed. The jury, summoned by Police Sergeant Trunnell, was composed of the following well-known citizens: James E. Fitch, John H. Magru-der, William A. Henderson, Arthur T. Brice, Thos. S. Nairn and Henry R. Bird. SWEARING THE JURY.

The jurors gathering around the body, and each with his right hand extended grasped the Bible. In that attitude, with the Bible immediately over the gaping wound, the oath was administered. The coroner then removed the bandage from the would ner then removed the bandage from the would that the jury might see it. The cut was a fright-ful one in the right side of the abdomen, and forehead, deep-set eyes of grayish color, and wears a full beard, rather closely cropped. He is bald, a full beard, rather closely cropped. He is bald, a full beard, rather closely cropped. er, jury and witnesses then went to the third precinct station house, on K street near 20th, where the testimony was taken.

MR. COBB'S STATEMENT. Mr. Clarence F. Cobb was the first witness, and had on a pair of cheap cotton pants, but they were clean. He wore a cheap striped shirt, which was also clean, and a white known Mr. Kennedy for many years. Yesterday undershirt. He had the sleeves of his outer shirt afternoon, between 5 and 5:30, witness saw two rolled up to the elbow. His pants were supported men lying on the ground near the northeast corner of 15th street and New York avenue. Witness recognized one of the men as Mr. J. C. G. Kenbler's hands, as the patches showed. During the nedy and the other was Daily, "this man here." examination of witnesses he employed his hands said the witness, pointing to the prisoner, who in rolling into a tight wad a white cotton handsaid the witness, pointing to the prisoner, who was present in the room. Mr. Kennedy was hallooing very loudly, and witness presumed the two men had accidentally run together and that in the fail Mr. Kennedy had got hurt. Witness ran up to the two men, and when he got to them he saw the knife lying on the ground. Then he realized that something serious had occurred. The knife was produced, and witness identified it. Mr. Kennedy's bowels were protruding even through his clothing, and he was evidently in great pain. Daily made no remark until

When the recess was taken the coroner and the jury left the room. Daily retained his seat in the corner, still busily engaged in rolling and unrolling his handkerchief.

"When were you released from the almshouse?" The Star reporter inquired of him. "I was discharged day before yesterday morning," he replied, "I was in the hospital at the almshouse." "What was the matter with you?" WITNESS SEIZED HIM.

Witness asked Daily if he had done that deed, the reporter that he had not done any work for He replied that he had done it, and he ten years, as he was not strong enough; and that was glad of it. Witness asked why he did it, and Daily replied that the "future would show why he done it." He put it "done it." added the witness. "I told him," continued the witness, "that I arrested him. I took him by the collar. He said there would be no trouble about that, as he would go anywhere with me I wanted him to. I held him a moment or two, and then the officer came, put the nippers on him, and took him off." Witness immediately went over to Mr. Kennedy and felt his pulse. Mr. Cobb said he Mr. Kennedy and felt his pulse. Mr. Cobb said he had studied medicine in his younger days, and he at once realized that Mr. Kennedy was dead.

Witness did not hear anything that would indicate that Mr. Kennedy recognized Daily. He heard Mr. Kennedy say nothing. He was yelling as if in pain. Daily was perfectly cool and collected until somebody threatened to hang him; then he became somewhat excited. The witness, for the benefit of the jury, again identified Daily as the murderer. He said Daily was very emphatic in acknowledging that he had struck the fatal blow.

Wm. G. Rabbit was the next witness. He testified that about 1:30 p. m. yesterday he was at the corner of 15th street and New York avenue. He saw Daily, the assassin, walk slowly down New York avenue in the direction of 14th street. He walked leisurely and for a short time stopped under the shade. Witness watched him until he disappeared near the corner of 14th street and New York avenue. About 3:30 witness saw Daily again sauntering along the street. Then he crossed over toward Riggs' Bank. At 5:05 witness, who is transfer agent at 15th street and New York avenue, got off duty. He heard somebody yell out: "I'm murdered!" It was Mr. Kennedy who called out that he was murdered. Witness saw Daily take both hands and shove Mr. Kenney over on his face. At the same time the assassin fell over Mr. Kennedy, and witness ran up and caught Daily by the shoulder. He pulled him off of Mr. Kennedy and asked why he committed the assault. Daily replied, "That's my business. You'll know hereafter." After pulling Daily off of Mr. Kennedy the latter with-knife, and said: "That's what he has killed me with." Mr. Kennedy repeated that three times. The wounded man drew the knife from his own side. Witness identified the knife. Witness said Daily walked as if he had a wooden leg; that pe-cultarity and his persistence in hanging around the vicinity caused witness to observe him more closely than perhaps he otherwise would. Witness did not think Daily was intoxicated. "He looked just about as he does now," said the witness, turning round to get a better view of Daily, "except that he had on a hat and coat." To the jury the witness said that Mr. Kennedy plainly indicated Daily as his murderer. As the wounded man withdrew the knife from his side he said, indicating Daily: "This is what he has killed me with." WHAT A COLORED BOY SAW. Alonzo Wheeler (colored), aged fourteen years, was at the corner of 15th street and New York was at the corner of 15th street and New York avenue about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He saw Mr. Kennedy come out of his office, lock his door, and walk to the letter-box, where he deposited his mail. Then witness saw a man walk up to Mr. Kennedy and stick a knife in him. He also pushed Mr. Kennedy and tick a knife in him. He also pushed Mr. Kennedy, and the two men fell to the ground together. Then a man grasped the assassin and asked who had done that. Daily said he had done it. Witness was only about five or six steps from Mr. Kennedy when he was stabbed. He did not know Daily, but would know him if he should see him. "Look around the room and see if he is here," said the coroner. The witness gianced around and pointed out Daily as the man who did the stabbing. Mr. Kennedy "hollered" four times and clashed his hands across his breast. When asked bointed out Daily as the man who did the stab-bing. Mr. Kennedy "hollered" four times and clashed his hands across his breast. When asked why he had done the deed Daily replied that was his business. When Kennedy closed and left his office Daily followed close behind him. Witness saw the blow struck with the knife.

ONLY ONE BLOW was struck. Witness did not see the knife re moved from the wound, but saw it lying on the ground. About or a little after 4 o'clock witness mained lying flat on the ground. Witness said to Dr. Ruth: "Here is a job for you," and both of them jumped out of the carriage and ran to where the wounded man was lying. Dr. Ruth asked the injured man if he was conscious; it he could hear what was being said to him, but there was no response. The respiration was labored and rapidly growing weaker. Witness saw the wound, from which some of the viscera was protruding. Some one present pointed out Daily as the assassin, whereupon Daily drew himself up and said: "Yes, he did it, and that he did not deny it." Witness was positive that Mr. Kennedy was unconscious from the instant he and Dr. Ruth reached him. There was no verbal response to Dr. Ruth's ques-tion, nor did the dying man indicate that he under-ione the cutting. MR. M. P. KEY, gent of the Humane Society, was in Morrison's stationery store about 5 p.m. yesterday. He heard him in raising the injured man. In raising his head he discovered blood, and then saw the wound. It was an ugly gaping wound and the intestines were protruding. When Daily was pointed out as the murderer, witness asked him why he had done it. He replied, "You find that out." When witness saw how badly the man was hurt he laid him down. When he first saw Mr.

Kennedy he was in a stooning posture bent over Kennedy he was in a stooping posture, bent over forward, supported chiefly by his right leg; the right shoe was full of blood. Witness partly raised him, and then discovering that he was dying he laid him down on his back. Mr. Kennedy was unconscious when witness reached him.

WM. BAUNDERS (colored), aged about fifteen, saw Mr. Kennedy close his office, walk to the letter-box, drop in some letters, and start toward the car. In a mosaw it fall to the pavement, and then Mr. Key picked it up. Witness saw the prisoner about the corner yesterday afternoon.

HOW DEATH WAS PRODUCED. Here a recess was taken to await the arrival o the surgeons who made the autopsy. After recess Dr. Lachian Tyler was sworn. He described the wound as on the right side of the abdomen, 3 inches in length, penetrating the abdominal walls. One part of the intestine was cut. The wound that produced the fatal result was the severance of the femoral artery. Death resulted from hemorrhage and shock. He said it was a necessarily fatal wound.

After deliberation the jury rendered their verdict, which was to the effect "that Jos. C. G. Ken. CHURCHILL'S AMBITION.

He Must Get Into the Government or Destroy It.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE EVENING STAR. London, July 14 .- Lord Randolph Churchill's speech to-night will supply some kind of an answer to the question which is being constantly debated in lobby and clubs. There is not much doubt that Churchill is working in connection with Chamberlain, and doing his best to turn out the government, or, at least, to give it a shock

Morning-The Scene in Court.

NEW YORK, July 14.-Jacob Sharp slept better

rose this morning at 9 o'clock. His wi by through his bedside seat in a corner of the room before any testimony | night, fanning him while he was asleep was taken. He is about fifty or fifty-five years of until the hour came at which he was to start for age, about 5 feet 9 inches tall, and may be some- the court-house. He was escorted from the jall to the carriage awaiting to convey him down town by Warden Keating, Under Sheriff Sexton and Deputy Sheriff Curran, Mrs. Sharp accompanied her husband and entered the carriage with him and the warden and under sheriff. Upon arriving at the county court-house at 11:50 the party alighted and passed through the lane made for them by the police through the waiting crowd of curious spectators to the sheriff's office and thence to the court-room. Sharp was so weak that it was necessary for the officers guarding him to support his tottering form. Judge Barrett, whose filmess yesterday compelled a postponement of the sentence of the convicted man, had recovered sufficiently to-day to be present in court. He arrived at the court-house at aimost the same moment a the prisoner. Lawyers Nelson, Stickney and Parsons seated themselves on the right of their client, opposite his wife and relatives. Sharp sat with classe hands and bowed head at the foot of the tabi facing the bench. After the court was called to order, Mr. Martine got up and stated that as he heard the defense had some remarks to make he wished to hear them, Mr. Mitchell responded saying that he would move for a new trial, and wished the stenographer to make a note of the fact. Judge Barrett said that if the document contained nothing new he would deny fhe application for a new trial. Mr. Mitchell then read the paper, stating that the trial was an unfair one n several w ays; the jury was prejudiced against the client, and gave an unfair verdict. Moreover the judge's charge was an unjust one. Several other points were raised, but of the stereotypes variety. Judge Barrett stated that the motio would properly be denied. MOVING FOR SENTENCE. Mr. Martine stood up to move the court to sentence the prisoner. He stated he considered it his duty to ask the court to appoint physicians to look into the prisoner's condition of health, and read some certificates from Doctors Allan McC. Hamilton and Janeway, to the effect that the prisoner's health was very bad, and that he was suffering from diabetes, inflammation of the kid-neys, and organic disease of the heart, which were of serious import to a man of his years. He then read Dr. Hamilton's report on the condition of Sing Sing and the arrangements for the care of the sick, which he said were of a most excellent character all around, and the place was most healthfly situated. "In view of these facts," con-cluded Mr. Martine, "there is nothing left for me to do but move for the sentence of the prisoner."

Mr. Mitchell then stood up to make a last appeal for the defense. He said he did not wish to delap the court, but would ask the judge to temper justice with mercy. PASSING SENTENCE. He had received many letters from many people pleading mercy and otherwise. But a court was not appointed to be merciful any more than was dictated by the laws of justice. A judge is anpointed to award penalty in accordance to the offance, when all the circumstances connected with ber next. Dr. Hoffman, who is in Minnesota on the commission of the offense have been duly business connected with the Geological Survey, weighed and considered. The defendant here, in asking for mercy, can give nothing as a plea for clemency but age and sickness. On the merits of the case he certainly is entitled to none. It is absurd to state that he was not guilty of giving the bribes as he was unmistakably the leader of the whole affair. We have not here, as in the case of the aldermen, any attempt to prove the defendant's good character. The crime itself was an enormous one, the raising of half a million of dollars to corrupt haif a legislature Judge Barrett reviewed the corrupt action of the "What is there to excite pity or mercy, except the age and ill-health of the prisoner, and the mourning condition of his family. With over $1,000,000 in his pocket he clamors for mercy without offering to pay back a penny of the many stolen; so that should he die in prison his family has a vast fortune to fall back on." At this Mrs. Sharp buried her face in her handkerchief and wept silently, while the prisoner himself did not lift his face from the table. "The legislature does not allow us to go below the minimum penalty in such a grave offense as the present is," continued Judge Barrett. "All cannot be satisfied—those who clamor for the prisoner's receiving the full penalty of the law and those calling for a reprimand. All things have been considered, and the judgment of this court is that the prisoner be confined four years at hard labor, and that he pay a fine of $5,000." An attempt at applause was made in one corner of the room as the sentence was pronounced, but it was suppressed quickly.

Sharp was taken back to Ludlow-street jail, and
